

FORAKER CAUGHT TAFT UNAWARES AT TOLEDO. THEY MET "BY CHANCE"

Pre-Arrangement of Foraker's Friends Got Them Together at Public Reception and Taft Had to Smile and be Cordial---Foraker Boldly Announced His Candidacy for Senator at the Demonstrations.

Toledo, Sept. 3.—Declaring that there never had been any feud between himself and Judge William H. Taft, Senator Joseph Benson Foraker yesterday openly announced his earnest support of that candidate in a speech so filled with terms of laudation as to make his hearers gasp with surprise.

Preceding this performance there was a dramatic meeting between these distinguished personages in the sight of the multitude upon the reviewing stand which caused an outburst of cheering.

Sensational as were both of these occurrences, a greater cause of astonishment was to follow.

In terms not so equivocal to be misunderstood Senator Foraker openly declared that he was a candidate for re-election, and was followed by his colleague, Senator Charles Dick, who, with great solemnity, asserted that it would be a loss to the senate of the United States and to Ohio, not to return Senator Foraker. In succinct terms he declared that the program in Ohio should be that for which George B. Cox pronounced last year—Taft for President, Harris for Governor, and Foraker for Senator.

Coming so close upon the incident of the action of the state committee in the nomination that he had been refusing to invite Senator Foraker to take part in the opening of the campaign at Youngstown next Saturday, and the indignant outburst of the ignorant with the knowledge and consent of Judge Taft, the occurrence of yesterday fairly took away the breath of the politicians and others interested in the campaign.

It was only 48 hours previous to the declaration that Judge Taft refused to go to the dedication ceremonies at Ft. Meigs, where Senator Foraker was carded to speak, for the reason that he did not wish to interfere in a local contest. It was stated that he recognized that there were a number of candidates for United States senator in Ohio, and that it would not be fitting for him to take any action which might be construed as meaning that he favored any particular contestant. Coming upon the heels of both of these disclosures happens the affair of yesterday assuming a puzzling exterior. The share of the presidential candidate in the day's doings was to greet Senator Foraker at the reviewing stand with demonstrative affability, and at the Lincoln club meeting to say that he welcomed the opportunity to be present at a reception to which Foraker, Governor Harris and other distinguished Ohioans were to be present, and to recall the fact that it was the senator who gave him his first chance in public life by appointing him Judge of the Superior court. This he prefaced with the statement that he was glad to be able to say that in the contest now on the Republicans would stand shoulder to shoulder with the full strength of the party.

In the face of these facts it is asserted by both parties that there was no prearrangement whereby this sensational climax was brought about. (Continued on page 2, 5th col.)

45,000 Persons Witnessed the State Fair Wednesday

STATE GRANGE MEETING

Directoire Girls Much in Evidence With Police Escort

Licking County Shares in the Prize Distribution and Captures Number of Awards.

Columbus, O., Sept. 3.—Over 35,000 people paid admission to the state fair grounds yesterday. According to Assistant Secretary James W. Fleming, of the board of agriculture, there were at least 45,000 people within the gates. Many complimentary tickets had been issued, largely owing to the meeting of the Grangers. It was stated last night that the gate receipts fell $200 short of Wednesday last year, when the receipts were swelled by "home comers."

The young women demonstrating the trained bare exhibition, is directing the local engagement of the young women. It is one of his star attractions at the fairs and carnivals he visits, and he declares it is a big drawing card. The girls will probably go to Detroit from Columbus.

The opening meeting of the reunion of the State Grange was held yesterday in Grange hall in the administration building. Addresses were made by members representing counties all over the state. Among those who spoke were L. J. Taber, state lecturer; F. A. Derthick, state grange master; C. M. Freeman, secretary of national grange; S. E. Strode, secretary of state grange; Dr. Ames, Washington county; A. A. Huber, Delaware county; W. J. Sanders, Hardin county; L. J. Spencer, Trumbull county. Secretary Strode reported that since last year the state grange had made an increase of 1600 members. Another meeting will be held today, when Aaron Jones of Newark and Mortimer P. White of Newark, N. J., will speak. Both are officers of the national grange.

The silver saddle trophy offered by the American Piddle Horse Registry of Kentucky was won by Jacob B. Perkins of Cleveland. Other first awards to saddle horses were to A. C. Long of Waynesburg, Pa.; W. S. Robinson, Mt. Sterling; Mitchell's stable, Columbus, and H. E. Donovan, Columbus. In the standard roadsters class Dr. C. E. Reist of Columbus and C. G. Smith of Reynoldsburg secured the majority of first and second awards.

In the American bred draft horses first awards were made to Leonard & Geyer, London; Lomo McLain, Lima; H. L. Domigan, Sunbury. In the Belgian class, first awards were made to J. W. Crawford & Son, LaFayette, Ind.; G. W. Crowfoot, Newark. Awards in the grade draft horse class were made to H. L. Domigan, Sunbury; Danser Horse company, Hilliard; M. W. Elliott, Alton; E. P. Rolson & Son, Delaware.

In the judging of Red Poll cattle Frank Hartline of Strasburg received the majority of firsts and seconds. Every award in the Guernsey class was made to W. D. Phelps of Hilliard. J. C. Shaw of Newark, captured every award in the Devon class. Hull Brothers of Painesville and A. F. Wampler of Dayton divided honors in the Brown Swiss cattle class.

In the Poland China class of swine, first awards were made to H. H. Davis, Mt. Victory, Charles E. Keller, Newark; Edward Klever, Bloomingburg; J. W. Townsley, Washington C. H.; T. Hunter & Co., Morrow.

MOTHER USED RAWHIDE.

Evansville, Ind., Sept. 3.—Eva Long, aged 19, was whipped by her mother upon order of Police Judge J. G. Winfrey. The girl is an old offender. Her mother told Judge Winfrey in court yesterday that she could not make the girl behave. Judge Winfrey thought that a whipping might have a better effect than a jail sentence, and her mother took her down into the cell room and applied the police whip to her. Twenty places were struck with the 36 inch rawhide on the girl's shoulders and back.

Abdul Aziz Not Able to Gather Effective Army, Will Relinquish the Throne.

Paris, Sept. 3.—Abdul Aziz, former Sultan of Morocco, has definitely decided to give up the struggle against his victorious brother, Mulai Hafid, according to a dispatch today from Mohammed Sidi Elmokhari, Moroccan minister of foreign affairs. Inability to gather an effective army together after the crushing blow dealt his force in fighting near Morocco City determined Abdul. He will not formally abdicate the throne, but simply relinquish it.

DUEL FOUGHT

With Knives for Hod Carriers on Top of Four Story Wall and One Falls Mortally Wounded.

Chicago, Sept. 3.—At the top of a narrow four story wall, Jos Bauza and Magnus Keilburg, hod carriers, fought with knives today, and as a result Keilburg is fatally stabbed, and police are searching for Bauza. Keilburg's body, terribly cut, was discovered by the police hanging over the edge of the wall. The men, while carrying hods, met on the wall and quarreled over the right of way. Both drew knives and cut and slashed each other for ten minutes, before Keilburg fell, mortally wounded.

CONFERENCE OF THE U. B. CHURCH NOW IN SESSION

Committees Chosen and Splendid Addresses Were Delivered by Visiting Clergymen.

The Southeast Ohio Conference of the United Brethren Church was opened at the East Main street U. B. church Tuesday afternoon. There are about 150 delegates and visitors witnessing at each session an interesting program.

Wednesday the following standing committees were chosen:

Devotion, Rev. R. S. Hill, Rev. S. Tryan, Rev. W. R. Weller.

Candidates for Ministry, G. F. Hughes, J. W. McLaughlin, C. P. Cornett.

Elders, W. W. Rynour, S. Orr, G. H. Sellers.

Boundaries, Geo. Geiger, R. S. Hill, J. B. Mathias, W. S. Smith, J. W. Miles and D. E. Giles.

Wednesday afternoon and evening were devoted to addresses by Bishop J. S. Mills, of Annapolis, Pa., and the introduction of local clergymen and organization of the conference.

The speakers of the evening were Dr. Miller, representing the Church Extension societies, who gave the societies' reports showing the growth of the churches, and the new ones built during the past year, and Dr. W. C. Whitner, of the Home Missionary society. Dr. Whitner laid particular stress upon the fact that the great influx of foreigners is causing an overcrowding of the land, giving the churches more work than they can do, therefore is detrimental to the country.

Bishop J. S. Mills, who has just returned from a tour of China, Japan, and Africa, delivered a most interesting and comprehensive address on the growth of Japan commercially, socially and spiritually. This address occupied the forenoon session Thursday.

The afternoon and evening sessions are to be devoted more strictly to official reports on district work in the different departments. Officers will probably be chosen Friday.

The trouble with the man who succeeds in drowning his sorrows in the flowing bowl is that he continues to celebrate the event.

The modern girl is brought up to date, and yet she often impresses us as not having much bringing up.

HAS MONSTER MEETING

Republican Executive Committeemen Affiliated With Trusts

Scores Dupont and Penrose and Claims Republican Presidential Candidate is Too Mild.

Sioux City, Ia., Sept. 3.—Addressing a monster Democratic rally here last night, William J. Bryan, Democratic candidate for president, in the course of a speech on the tariff, guarantee of bank deposits, the labor and trust questions and governmental reforms, denounced Coleman Dupont of Delaware and Senator Boise Penrose of Pennsylvania, members of the Republican executive committee, as not being expected to become reformers, because, as he charged, of their affiliations with the trusts. Especial attention was given to the reform and trust questions.

During a two hour stay in St. Paul between trains, Mr. Bryan took his breakfast in an uptown cafe, which he reached in an up-town walk. On the way back he observed in a stock store an announcement that the music included phonographic records of his speech on guaranty of bank deposits, and of Mr. Taft on injunctions in labor disputes. He entered the place and at his request both records were reproduced. His own remarks were heard first, and as the last word died away, he smilingly remarked: "I am now convinced."

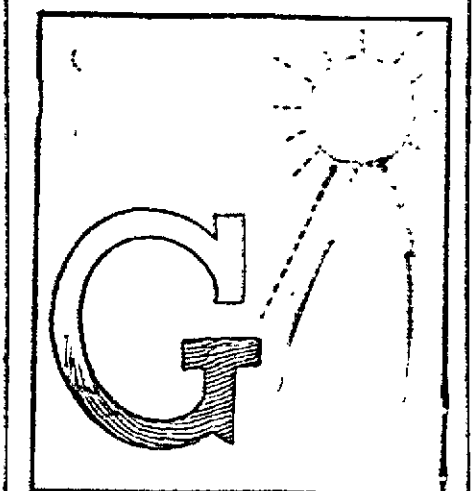

Discussing the question of reforms, Mr. Bryan declared that the Republican party was not in a position to reform anything. "Why?" he asked. "Because its conspicuous members are connected with the very things that need reform, and the Republican party cannot prosecute the guilty without disgracing its most prominent members."

As an illustration he cited the fact that the Republican national committee had selected a chairman and that that chairman had selected his executive committee.

"If," he said, "you will read the names of the members of the executive committee that are now carrying on this campaign you will find that a majority of them are conspicuous for their connection with the very corporations that need regulation. One of them, Mr. Dupont of Delaware, is today the defendant in a suit for conspiracy in violation of the anti-trust law brought by the United States government, and which is still pending. Mr. Dupont is defendant in the action, and yet he is on the executive committee to carry on the Republican campaign and the chairman of the speakers' bureau of that committee."

"Now," he said, "I want to ask you: Do you think that Mr. Dupont is in a good position to pick up speakers and train them as to what they shall say? Do you expect any speaker to do that?"

AMBASSADORS WHO ARE CONCERNED OVER CHINESE ALLIANCE TALK

Discussion in London, Paris and New York as to conditions that might arise in the event of an alliance between the United States and China seem to have been taken seriously in the orient. Recent dispatches from Peking hint at the possibility of Minister Wu Ting Fang being recalled because of remarks attributed to him concerning an alliance. Baron Takahira of Japan, visited Pres. Roosevelt at Oyster Bay and is said to have discussed the alliance talk and the presence of the United States fleets in the Pacific.

Against the government suit against the powder trust if the speaker is picked out and instructed by one of the defendants in the case? Do you expect Mr. Penrose of Pennsylvania, who has been intimately connected with all the great corporations of his state, to become a reformer? And yet he is another one of the executive committee to carry on the Republican campaign."

Mr. Bryan asserted that there were more trusts now in the United States than there were 11 years ago. "Not only this," he said, "but with the most strenuous Republican you ever have had in the White House, he has not succeeded in putting one trust magnate in the penitentiary."

The so-called international harvester trust was scored by the Democratic candidate who charges that the Republican party had not yet attempted to free the country from its alleged extortions. "Why have not those trusts been crushed out?" he inquired. "What prospect is there that they will be crushed under Republican rule? If Mr. Roosevelt is not able to bring his party into active opposition to this trust, what hope have you that Mr. Taft will do better?"

Mr. Taft, he said, was not as strenuous as Mr. Roosevelt. "Read his language," he said, "and compare it with the fiery denunciation made in the president's message of last January."

On the trust question said Bryan, the people have no hope of relief with Mr. Taft as president. "For," he said, "he not only does not promise you relief, but criticizes me severely because I do promise relief." He declares that every private monopoly ought to be dissolved and that competition ought to be restored in order that the people may have the benefit of that competition.

Continuing Mr. Bryan said that "Mr. Taft not only does not say that his party will destroy the private monopoly but he does say that to destroy it would destroy and irritate business. He says that what the country needs is not extermination of trusts, but regulation. He has tried regulation in his party for 12 years, and the result is that the trusts have regulated the Republican party, but the party has failed to regulate the trusts."

Wife Was Present and Was First to Reach the Aeronaut

Airship Burned in Mid Air and Accident Was Witnessed by 25,000 People.

Portland, Maine, Sept. 3.—Charles Oliver Jones, the daring aeronaut of Hammondport, N. Y., fell 500 feet to his death, following the burning in midair of his airship, the Boomerang, at Waterville late yesterday afternoon.

Jones was making demonstrations at the Central Maine Fair, and 25,000 people were staring in the air watching the Boomerang glide about 500 feet above the fair grounds. The start was to have been made at three o'clock, but weather conditions prevented, and at five o'clock Jones got under way.

Waving his hand at the thousands of people and bidding his smiling wife and baby good-by, he tilted the suddenly gas bag and was off.

Suddenly the watchers were horrified to see tongues of flame shoot about the gas bag ahead of the motor.

As fire tickled his way along the gas bag the crowd yelled as one person a mighty "Look out!" but it seemed as full minute before the aeronaut was apprehensive of his danger. Finally he was seen to look up at the flaming envelope, then made a frantic lunge at the ripping cord to let the gas out of the bag in order to descend, but almost at the same time the flames seemed to spread over the entire surface of the bag, presenting an awful spectacle in midair.

Then came one great flash of flame and the aeronaut in the framework sped downward, landing with a terrific crash just outside the fair grounds.

Pandemonium broke loose as the heavy frame fell with its human cargo, and in the mad rush women and children were trampled under foot, but no one was seriously injured.

Mrs. Jones, with her baby, was among the first to reach the unfortunate man, who was found pinned beneath the framework.

The gas bag landed a few yards away.

An ambulance rushed the injured man to the hospital, where it was found that he had sustained a broken spine and internal injuries. He lived an hour and a half after the accident.

Jones had claimed everything for his machine and expected to make several demonstrations of aerial navigation during the week.

Mrs. Jones, who has made several flights with her husband, was at a loss to understand how the gas bag caught fire, and it will probably never be known.

Mobilized in Newark.

A number of the companies comprising the Seventh regiment, Ohio National Guard, mobilized at the B. & O. depot, this city, Wednesday night, and left on a special B. & O. train for Fort Benjamin Harrison, near Indianapolis, which will be a busy place for the balance of this week and all of next. The National Guard of this state, together with six other states, and many members of the regular army cavalry, infantry and field artillery will be there, and mimic battle will be waged for days together.

Who Are They?

Two well known members of the Newark fire department invited lady friends to accompany them to the state fair. They had never been out of the city before, and the tall buildings, the crowded streets and the noise of traffic in the city were all new to them. They took in the fair, looked at the pumpkins and squashes, rode on the merry-go-round and took in the side shows, returning home in the evening as well pleased as a baby with his first rattle box. Today the party visited Bladensburg, and are taking in the sights of that romantic village.

THAT "PROSPERITY PLACARD" MEETS CONDEMNATION

The "prosperity placard" that has been posted in many factories throughout the country, has been denounced by fair minded men of all parties. These placards read:

On the day after the election :
of Taft and Sherman this factory :
will start up in full force.

The news dispatches have contained the denunciation of this Republican campaign swindle by David M. Parry, of Indianapolis, former president of the National Association of Manufacturers, and a stalwart Republican. His denunciation has been widely published by the press of the country. Mr. Parry's attention to these placards was called by John M. Kern, Democratic nominee for vice president, who wrote him on the subject, enclosing one of the "prosperity posters".

Mr. Parry promptly replied, denouncing the trick as a "business scare," and a swindle without the slightest excuse and devoid of an honest purpose.

If the Republican managers possessed any sense of justice they would suppress this method of trying to bribe or coerce the workmen.

The "prosperity placard" announcing that "on the day after the election of Taft and Sherman this factory will start up in full force," is a combined effort to blackmail and to bribe. For several months there has been a slow but pretty steady increase in the amount of running machinery. It was more evident immediately after Mr. Bryan's nomination than before it. The progress toward recovery is likely to go on during the fall. Business would be just as good the day after Bryan and Kern should be elected as the day after Taft and Sherman should be elected.

Chairman Payne of the ways and means committee says "the tariff must be revised by the means of an American workman." This inveterate placeman, who has been feeding at the public crib for 40 years, would have American workmen believe that he is one of their "friends," when all the evidence goes to show that he is a mere tool of the Trust barons of predatory wealth.

With the enormous expenditure of public money and the growing deficit in the national treasury, predictions are freely made that the Republicans will be compelled to resort to a tax on incomes or make new government loans, unless they are driven from power next November.

Fifty thousand Minnesotans turned out at the great St. Paul gathering to hear Bryan discourse on the unparalleled extravagance of the Roosevelt administration. There is no token of indifference in such a monster demonstration.

VERMONT'S FORECAST

Vermont has gone Republican again. It is like the Dutch taking Holland. Vermont never goes any other way. It was about as likely to go Democratic as Texas is to go Republican.

For the purpose of making "an impression" two members of the cabinet were sent into the state to make stirring and stimulating speeches. The Republicans wanted to carry Vermont by 40,000 to 50,000 to indicate a tidal wave for "my policies" and "my candidate." Four years ago Roosevelt carried Vermont by 30,682.

The vote Tuesday shows a falling off of 8 per cent in the Republican vote, and a falling off of only 2 per cent in the Democratic vote.

This is the great "triumph" of the Vermont election.

Chairman Hitchcock says he is satisfied. So are we.

The same ratio of net gain for Democracy shown by the vote in Vermont would make Ohio Democratic by over 40,000 in November.

THOUGHTS FOR THINKERS

CLEAN OUT THE STATE HOUSE.

"Shall the People Rule?" or shall the trusts rule the people?

State Auditor Guilbert can see nothing wrong about rotation in office. He is one of the rotators. His deputy wants to be. So does State Treasurer McKinnon's deputy.

A Republican paper says: "The people know that the Republican Dingley (tariff) law of 1897 has been followed by ten years of unprecedented prosperity." Then what happened?

Governor Harris admitted in two special messages to the legislature that he knew it to be his duty to examine the state auditor's office. But he didn't do it, and hasn't done it yet.

If Charles C. Green, deputy, who became heir apparent to W. S. McKinnon as Republican candidate for state treasurer, still thinks that a state official's business is none of your business, then it isn't his business.

Some men are at work repairing the outside of the state house at Columbus. What the old building needs is a thorough cleaning out inside, from top to bottom, and that is what the voters of Ohio will do in November.

MITCHELL PREFERS DENVER PLATFORM

Speaking of the Republican and Democratic platforms, John Mitchell, the conservative labor leader, says that "from the standpoint of labor the Democratic platform is decidedly the better of the two." John Mitchell is a man whose judgment is highly appreciated by the workmen of the United States.

Will Stop Bank Panics.
There will be no more bank panics if the Oklahoma guaranteed deposit scheme becomes universal in this country. The Democratic national platform speaks out plainly for the general adoption of the Oklahoma idea.—Madison County Democrat.

IT'S TOO MUCH.
A Republican paper says Mr. Taft "stands for security to capital and justice to labor." You bet, Wall Street always insists on security. As for justice to labor, Mr. Taft established some precedents when he was a judge. That's enough.—Columbus Press-Pest.

Carmi Called Again.
Assistant Attorney General Miller has the kind of stuff in his backbone that we admire. He would make a good secretary of state. He probably would not try to avoid responsibility by calling in another man to sit in a dipt case. By the way, was not Hon. Carmi A. Thompson elected upon the supposition that he knew the duties of the office and would perform them—without calling in a coadjutor judge?—Wellston Sentinel, Rep.

THESE ARE THE KIND OF TREES TO HAVE ABOUT

Plum Tree Will Have Second Growth of Fruit—Cherry Trees Come to Life and Do Business.

Miss Josephine Haugh, of Columbus, and her sister, Mrs. George Williams, of Seventh street, this city, returned, Wednesday from their country home, near Johnstown, considerably interested in the double yielding of a plum tree in the orchard of the Haugh farm. The tree bloomed and yielded fruit in large quantities this summer and after apparently having shed its fruit for the fall, is again in bloom and bringing forth a second growth of fine plums. The curious phenomenon is exciting considerable curiosity in the neighborhood.

Mr. Thomas Monahan of Mt. Vernon, has two cherry trees, which if cold weather does not come too soon, will bear fruit for the second time this season. After bearing once and apparently dying the trees suddenly came to life this week and came out in full leaf and blossom. The trees are attracting a good deal of attention.

FLAMES

er be known. As she saw the big bag burst into flames she seemed wild with fear, but, refusing the assistance of those standing by rushed across the fields as the wind carried the burning machine across the country.

Jones was seen to crouch in the framework to get as far as possible away from the flames, and then rolling over and over in the air, the monster mechanism hurtled to the ground, Jones landing underneath the mass of material.

Mr. Jones was a native of Cincinnati and was 45 years old. He came to Hammondsport two years ago and began work on heavier-than-air flying machines for an Ohio syndicate. Four of those machines were built by him to demonstrate a principle, and then he turned his attention to dirigibles.

The machine which caused his death was built during the past year and was first exhibited in Elmira, then at Binghamton, and afterward in Palisade Park, N. J. At the first trial of the ship Jones lost control and sailed helplessly for 12 miles. Disaster seemed to follow in the wake of the Boomerang, as the ship was called.

Mrs. Jones and their three young children were in Waterville and witnessed the disaster.

It was Jones who evolved the famous "June Bug," which made several record flights for short distances. The "June Bug" won the Scientific American trophy offered for heavier than air machines attaining a speed of about 30 miles an hour against the wind. Jones had planned to go to the experimental station in Nova Scotia with Lieut. Selfridge of the United States Signal Corps, to work on a new aeroplane.

WATER WORKS TEST TODAY SHOWED SEVEN STREAMS WITH 105 POUND PRESSURE*Public Service Board Did Not Learn Effect at the Pumping Station---No Time Limit Specified in Contract for Completion of the Pumps.

A pipe, hydrant and pressure test of the new water works was made Thursday morning when seven streams of water were turned on through the fire hose in different parts of the city. One hose was used by each of the three outlying streams, while from the Central four streams were thrown from the plugs at the corners of Fourth and Main, Fourth and Church, and Fifth and Main.

The test was started with a water pressure of ninety pounds which was gradually increased to 105 pounds. Mr. Taylor, of the Board of Service, stated Thursday afternoon that he did not care to say whether the test was satisfactory until he was able to visit the plant and ascertain how much work the pumps were required to do to exert the 105 pounds pressure which was said to have been acquired. Mr. Taylor stated that the required pressure is 120 pounds and that whether that could be reached remains to be seen.

Mr. Bonnell of the American Light and Water company, is quoted as saying to Clerk Gundlach that "the pressure was not raised to 120 pounds because Fire Chief Bausch did not have men enough at Central to hold the nozzles of the hose."

It is understood that this was to be a final pipe and hydrant test. If such were the case it would seem advisable to secure enough additional men, if need be, to hold the hose nozzles while the required 120 pounds pressure is demonstrated.

The claim is made by the representatives of the Platt Iron Works that there was no time specified in the revised contract with the city when the water works pumps were to be completed, which was mentioned in yesterday's Advocate.

If this is true then somebody acting for the city at that time was at fault. All such contracts should have a time limit for completion of the work under construction.

When the original contract was changed the late president of the board of service made a boasting public announcement of what had been gained for the city in the changing of the style of the pumps. That was in the early summer of 1906, and there was no thought when that boast was made that it would be more than two years thereafter before the pumps would be completed.

The final hearing of the defendant is required to execute and deliver to her a deed for the property Smythe & Smythe, attorneys for plaintiff.

W. J. BRYAN, JR., WHO IS REPORTED ENGAGED TO WED.*THE NEW DIPLOMACY.

Dr. Hill's Scholarly Contribution to a German Review.

Dr. David Jayne Hill, the new American ambassador to Germany, contributes to a monthly review his opinions of modern diplomacy and the duties of modern diplomats. Hitherto, he says, the foundation on which diplomacy rested was the doctrine of the absolute sovereignty of states, a doctrine that each state existed for itself alone, and the chief task of the diplomatist was to help strengthen his own state by weakening the others and destroying competition from them in his own country and injure their trade and industry in other countries.

"Now," says the ambassador, "a different view prevails, and just as modern political economists have overthrown false economic dogmas like that in regard to the mercantile system and the supposed advantage of possessing the largest stock of the precious metals, so the modern diplomatist must discard the old diplomacy and instead of separating nations bring them closer together, instead of sowing dissensions among them introduce order, law and justice for their mutual relations."

"The best equipment for him who seeks to do this is a knowledge of history, and as a skillful physician proceeds to first acquaint himself with the whole physical and physiological history of the patient before prescribing, so a skillful diplomatist should first acquaint himself with the history of states before trying to bring jarring interests of nations in harmony."

The chief danger today, Dr. Hill thinks, lies in the conflict of commercial interests, the increase of population, the desire to acquire or extend territory and search for new markets and new colonies. He suggests a remedy by asking, "Is it, then, necessary to acquire political influence over territory in order to obtain commercial advantages therefrom and therein?"

The whole article is dominated by the thought that all states more and more belong to the real family of nations and the interests and happiness of the whole family are to be considered on the same parallel with the interests and happiness of individual countries and their peoples.

BRYAN'S MAIL ENORMOUS.

Popular Subscription Plan of Collecting Campaign Funds is Responsible.

The "popular subscription" plan of campaign adopted by the Democrats has swelled Mr. Bryan's mail, which was very large before the campaign contributions began to come in, to enormous size. Wagon loads of it are received every day at Lincoln, Neb., but only a small percentage of the letters addressed to the nominee for president reach his desk. No human being could take care of one-fourth of the mail that is received by the Bryans every day.

Mr. Bryan's brother Charles is the man upon whom falls the task of taking care of the greater portion of the letters. All of William J. Bryan's mail goes first to his newspaper office, where it is sorted and where the greater portion of it is answered. Mail that deserves the attention of the candidate himself is sent to Fairview, and there, in addition to Mr. Rose, Mr. Bryan's confidential secretary, a force of stenographers is kept at work answering letters and acknowledging the receipt of campaign money.

Thousands of Democrats throughout the country seem to prefer to send their offerings direct to the nominee instead of to the national treasurer, Governor Haskell. After each installment of mail is gone through there is a great pile of drafts, checks and money orders representing campaign contributions, and these negotiable bits of paper are sent to the bank twice each day, and when the account has grown to liberal proportions a big draft is forwarded to the national treasurer.

"Does anybody want this auto?" Bolder than the rest, John Giard said in a semi-apologetic tone, "I'll take it."

"Well, it's yours," was the response of the owner, who jammed his cap tightly on his head and walked briskly away, taking with him the number plate to conceal his identity. Giard, who is a mechanic with a little tinkering was able to run the big red car to a garage. A tag marked "Holt" is the only clue to the former owner of the auto.

ADVICE TO FARMERS.

Roosevelt's Talk on Opening Robinson Library.

TELLS HOW TO BE HAPPY.

The Mother and the Grand Army—Executive Declares He Will Go to the Limit in Fighting All Kinds of Trickery.

Speaking to an audience of over a thousand people who gathered to witness the opening of the Jordanville (N. Y.) Public Library, President Roosevelt gave advice concerning the duties of farmers to their wives, of the wives to their husbands and of both to their children.

The president said in part:

"The value of a gift depends absolutely upon what use you make of it. You have got to use it rightly. That is all that any human being can do for any one else—to give them a chance—and it rests with himself or herself to take advantage of it."

"I believe that more and more buildings like this could be used to advantage not only because of the books, but because it can be used as a place for social meeting, and, while you boys and girls can meet here for social improvement, it will be a place, I hope, where mothers will meet also. If I have got to choose any whom I would put ahead of the Grand Army man even, it would be the mothers."

The president switched abruptly to telling about the man who does not shirk his work.

"I never preach the doctrine of shirking," he said, "and I never put play ahead of work. The happiest persons are those who do well the work before them."

"I do not envy the idler, neither the idle son of a multimillionaire or the hobo. I have for both intense pity of the kind that is akin not to love, but to contempt. The hardest worked individual on the farm is apt to be the mother or wife of the farmer."

"I believe in the farmer economizing, but on himself, not his wife. I am dead right on that. If you have got to drop some one, drop one hired man rather than the hired girl. I want to see buildings like this one used for mothers' meetings. It gives the women a chance to meet each other socially, and it puts them in better trim for work."

"My ideal of a boy is one who will grow up and be able to support himself and a wife and children. To be fit to be an American citizen he has got to preserve his self respect and conduct himself so as to wrong no one else. Now and then you will hear the wise father or one who thinks he is wise dwell upon the fact that his boy is smart."

"If he means to be able, quick and to be trusted, then all right, but if by smartness is meant, as is too often the case, the kind of adroitness that sneers off into trickery or the kind of ability that is just off the line of honesty, then you should teach him that he is growing up to be an enemy of the republic. Trickery is trickery if it takes the form of doing a man out of his day's work or cheating in grocery stores or swindling on a great scale by stock gambling or the manipulation of railway securities."

"I'm with you to the limit in trying to put a stop to the rascality of the big man. I'll go to any length to do it, and the big man knows it, but there never will be an end until the big man is made to know that what you object to is rascality itself and not rascality in the big men alone. Rascality in the great and the small is to be frowned upon in this republic. Distrust equally the man who never sees dishonesty in the big man and the one who sees it only in the big man."

"Fathers need the most preaching, yet frequently the mothers who have had hard lives take the unwise course of attempting to benefit their daughters and sons by bringing them up free from hard knocks. Next to hardness of heart the next least desirable quality is softness of heart, and the mother and father should not try to bring up their children in that way. You don't get the right stuff out of those children for the next war or you don't get decent citizens when there isn't any war. Bring them up to work, so that they shall recognize that an obstacle is not something to be shirked, but to be overcome."

"If there is one thing the farmer has the advantage of it is in the matter of fresh air. If you have your bedroom too stuffy you then get rid of that advantage. If your rooms are hermetically sealed and then if any air gets in and you catch cold you are no better off than if you were a dweller in a tenement. Such homely problems as these I cannot discuss, but I can suggest them to you for your discussion."

Tramps Sanest Class of All.

Dr. A. T. Tredgold, a prominent English medical man, who made extensive investigation in behalf of a royal commission on the feeble minded, makes the astonishing statement that tramps as a class are the sanest people in the community. He says that the percentage of feeble minded among tramps is less than any other class. This he attributes to the method and the futility of purpose that must be employed by an itinerant getting about from place to place.

TOLSTOY Intellectual Czar of all the Russians

Aristocrat, Peasant, Philosopher, Reformer, Agitator, Humanitarian and Literary Genius.

ON the threshold of his eightieth birthday Count Tolstoy, intellectual czar of all the Russians, aristocrat, peasant, philosopher, reformer, agitator, humanitarian, literary genius and lover of everything that lives, launched one of his daring, audacious philippics against the czar because the death sentence was being inflicted upon so many Russians and another because people who distributed and read his books were being arrested, tortured and ruined. The first philippic was inspired by a report that twelve peasants had been hanged for an attack with intent to rob on the landed proprietor's estate. With the strokes of a master Tolstoy painted a graphic word picture of the executions "carefully arranged and planned by the upper class," denounced the secretary of the court, the premier and the czar as "indirect participants in the iniquities perpetrated every day" and appealed to them to cease their bloody work for the sake of their souls and for the God who lived within them. The will that sent them into the world, he declared, desired only one thing from them—love from man to man.

Love of Man for Man.

"But what are you doing? To what are you devoting your spiritual strength?" he asked. "Whom do you love? Who loves you? Your wife? Your child? But that is not love. The love of wife and children is not human love. Animals love in that way even Russia. Tourists safely accredited to penetrate the domains of the "little father" uniformly have had two objects in view—one to be presented at court and meet the czar because of the awe and glamour that attach to the ruler of the world's greatest autocracy; the other, to meet Tolstoy, idealist, champion of the brotherhood of man, hater of war, injustice and oppression, author whose works have appeared in forty-five languages, lover of liberty and peace, literal follower of Christ.

Dormant Genius Awakens.

A descendant of Count Peter Tolstoy, who was a friend and comrade of Peter the Great, Count Lyov, or Leo Tolstoy, was born at Yasnaya Polyana on Aug. 28, 1828. At an early age he was left an orphan, but he received a good education, as do all Russian nobles, being placed under private tutors and afterward attending the university at Kazan. He pursued his studies and traveled widely until 1851, when he entered the army and went on an expedition to Caucasus.

Early in youth Tolstoy had been thrown in contact with the gay military life of Moscow, and when he exchanged that life for that of the university it meant, to a large extent, only a continuation of riotous living. But of a sudden the nobler passion in him began to stir. The dormant genius began to awaken and to look what it was on the clock of self emancipating humanity. Tolstoy the man be-more strongly. Human love is the love of man for man—for every man as a son of God and therefore a brother. Whom do you love in that way? No one. Who loves you in that way? No one. You are feared as the hangman or a wild animal is feared, all of you, from the lowest to the highest accomplished in murder.

In his second philippic Tolstoy declared that tormenting the distributors of his writings, "while I, the chief cause not only of the distribution but even of the existence of these books, am left in peace," was not only "revoltingly unjust, but also amazingly stupid." The Russian subject, he said, had been forced to obey his czar before his God.

"An illiterate peasant," declared Tolstoy, "may get drunk, roll in the mud, use bad language, fight, break a comrade's jaw, beat his wife and steal a horse, but I cannot imagine a peasant in the whole of Russia who either when sober or even when drunk would venture to say that a man ought to be punished for circulating a book which says that working people can only arrange their life as they live. A 'godly' life—that is, live in accordance with the gospel commandments—to kill no one, not to quarrel, and that to live 'godly' means to fear and obey God more than one fears the police officer, the governor or the czar, and when police officer, governor or czar commands anything that God forbids one must obey not police officer, governor or czar, but God, and that killing is forbidden by God. And yet it stands written down, sealed and signed by a senator, that the man who spreads such thoughts must be punished, and this is located by an announcement that all this is done in Russia in 1908 by his imperial majesty's ukaz."

These two incidents are characteristic of a man who for the past quarter of a century has been one of the greatest intellectual forces at work in the gan his great life struggle with Tolstoy the Russian. He grieved, ashamed of his life of dissipation and, tearing himself from his carousals with his prodigal companions, dead, a year before his graduation, to his country estates, there to exchange the books of the university for the implements of the field, the prospective life of a lawyer for that of a farmer. Five years he spent on the life of a student, partly the life of a master of peasant slaves and partly as a dreamer of beautiful dreams from their emancipation. He was aroused from these dreams by the nation's call to arms. On the breaking out of the Crimean war he went to Sebastopol, there taking command of a mountain battery and assisting in the defense of the citadel. At the close of the war in 1856 he resigned his commission and devoted himself to the literary career which was to make him world renowned.

Immediate success crowned his efforts as a writer. He was as greatly surprised as anybody at this instantaneous success. From the bloody fields of war he had been hastened to St. Petersburg, where as the most famous author of the day he was welcomed with open arms by a society whose only virtue, to judge from his writings, seemed to lie in its not being virtuous. The period of probation reached its end at last. Thrown again into the whirl of the gay world, he had drained the cup of sin down to its dregs, and his mind became absolutely, like the drama of "Fanny," the first part of his life. Tolstoy the Tartar perished; Tolstoy the philosopher was born.

Two Literary Periods.

His writings represent two periods of literary work—before and after his religious crisis in 1878-9. "Boyhood," his first story, was printed anonymously and was a great success. Then came "Boyhood," "Youth," "The Cossacks," "Sevastopol Sketches," "Family Happiness," "War and Peace," "Anna Karenina" and many other short stories. His tales published during the Crimean war caused Emperor Alexander II. to order the general under whom Tolstoy served to take care of the author and not to expose his life to any danger. The stories named above belong to Tolstoy's first literary period. To the second belong "My Confession," "What I Believe," "The Kreutzer Sonata" and other religious, philosophical and sociological productions.

The Tolstoy cult, developed since that day when the Tartar was transformed into the philosopher, astonished the world. That part of it which deals with the relations of state and individual is not very different from widely held Socialist views in many parts of the world, that which deals with the church is repugnant to the orthodox—it led to his excommunication by the Greek church several years ago—and that which deals with the tender passion is at variance with the conventional view. It was the treatment of this last phase of the cult in "The Kreutzer Sonata" that made the novel the sensation of two continents. In his efforts to follow the example of Christ, Tolstoy refused to accept pay for his literary work and on his copyrights and endeavored to give away his personal property and his estates, covering 2,500 acres, but in these matters he was frustrated by his wife, who declared that she and the thirteen children she had borne him should not be impoverished. This and other phases of the Tolstoy cult are so unconventional and impractical that for years past many Russians have believed he was crazy. In an article entitled "The Tragedy of Tolstoy" Sophie Witte, sister of Count Witte, made this significant statement: "The number of tragic, unnatural deaths and suicides, and especially the number of people who have become insane, in this aristocratic family, has been astonishingly great."

Though prevented from giving away his property, Tolstoy adopted a very simple and frugal method of living and wore the rough clothing of the Russian peasant. Once he appealed to a peasant audience by reading "The Power of Darkness" before his tenants. To his intense chagrin the peasants roared with laughter at the most pathetic points in his story. But this incident did not dim his interest in the lowly moujik. Early and late he championed their rights and denounced their wrongs under the czar's despotic rule.

Cupid as the Devil.

A writer who visited Tolstoy not long ago thus described him: "Tolstoy reads, writes and receives his friends in his bedroom. His couch is quite devoid of mattress, sheets or pillows. Near the couch there always is an assortment of shoemaker's materials, with which he works when not toiling in the field or devoting himself to writing. He arises at 5 o'clock in the morning and goes to bed early at night. His meals are of the simplest food and no meat. He defends the opinion that man has no right to kill and consume a living organism.

"Temperance finds in the great novelist an enthusiastic supporter. He neither drinks nor smokes, and he includes in the term many other indulgences that the ordinary advocates of temperance consider apart from their creed. To him romantic love also is intemperance. The tender passion that from all time has been the theme of the poet and novelist Tolstoy deems a species of moral depravity. Cupid is the devil in his most awful guise. Matrimony brought about by romantic love he holds to be an unholy alliance. Men and women should love each other as friends or brothers and sisters.

"In the matter of land ownership Tolstoy admires the theories of the late Henry George. He considered George the greatest American citizen of his time. Tolstoy, however, believes in a system of communal rather than national ownership. The ideal state of society, according to his theory, is the simple rural commune, in which every family would have the right to till soil enough for its own support. Governments he regards as the root of all evil. Tax collectors he considers highwaymen. He looks forward to a day when men will no longer consent to be robbed of money nor be instructed in the art of murdering one another in war.

"The accumulation of vast possessions by individuals the count regards as one of the great evils. His thought has been that the mission of a few great American millionaires would be to hasten the climax. He does not think, however, that the equalization of property will be brought about by violence, but by a general moral awakening. The great millionaires, he expects, will become convinced that they have no right to the property they now regard as their own and will give it up, just as he would now be willing to move off the family estate at Yasnaya Polyana. America, he thinks, will set the example. England will follow, then Russia."

Two immense fishhawks had fun in the ocean at Asbury Park, N. J., with William Prell, a musician employed at Congress Hall. The musician was bathing in the ocean about a hundred yards from shore when suddenly a school of shark surrounded him, and he had his head kept afloat. In the midst of his troubles the fishhawks spied the fish and attempted to get a hearty meal. In doing this the hawk nibbled at Prell's head occasionally. The musician, now nearly frantic, yelled for help, and Life Guard Hildebrand and soon had Prell safe on shore.

The fourth and last quarterly meeting of this conference year will be held at Liberty chapel next Saturday and Sunday. There will also be a Sunday school picnic Saturday.

Owing to the less reunion not being well advertised but few were present, but a good time was had by those who were there.

Mrs. R. S. Johnston came up from Brownsville Friday evening to pack up their goods and remained until Tuesday. The professor arrived Monday. The High school had planned a surprise for them in the evening, preparatory to their leaving Tuesday, and about 75 were present to spend the evening and to bid them good bye.

The scholars presented them with a fine rocker. The professor and his wife are held in high esteem by the people of this community. They will go to Athens to attend school the coming year.

The Grange fair will be held this year on September 19. It is desired that any one having old relics will bring them for exhibition.

Only a fool would guess at the age of an egg or a woman.

ACT QUICKLY.

Delay Has Been Dangerous in Newark.

Do the right thing at the right time. Act quickly in times of danger. Backache is kidney danger. Doan's Kidney Pills act quickly. Cure all distressing, dangerous kidney ills.

Pleanty of evidence to prove this. Mrs. Bruce Ferrel, residing on Railroad street, Dresden O., says: "While a young girl a heavy weight fell on me and left my kidneys in a very disordered condition. My back gave me a great deal of annoyance and I suffered from bearing down pains which seemed to be as severe during the night as during the day and greatly disturbed my rest. I arose feeling very tired in the morning and had very little energy or ambition during the day. Finally I procured Doan's Kidney Pills, began their use and they positively cured me. I do not hesitate to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to all sufferers of kidney complaint."

Pleanty more proof like this from Newark people. Call at A. F. Crayton's drug store and ask what customers report.

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

PROSPECTS FOR DENISON SAID TO BE EXCELLENT

Dormitory Halls of Shepardson College Have All Been Engaged---Buildings Being Repaired and Refurnished

Denison Professor Has Judge Taft for one of His Audience at Recent Lecture---Dr. E. W. Hunt Will Sail From England Saturday, Sept. 5.

Granville, O., Sept. 3.—The prospect for Denison the coming year is excellent. Many of the young women contemplating preparatory work at Shepardson college, have been unable to secure rooms in any of the three large dormitory halls, as they were all taken before August 1, by applications and retaining fees, from young women in the regular collegiate course, to whom the preference has to be given. Others have been obliged to find rooms in town, or join the waiting list for next year. There still remain some rooms in one of the men's dormitories. As there are more abundant opportunities for the young men to secure rooms off the campus at fraternity houses and elsewhere, the men's dormitories are never so fully engaged in advance.

Marsh and Talbot halls and Doane academy hall have been given refurnishing and repairs at large expense during the vacation. Walls have been given a muresco finish, all windows have had weather strips attached, an extra system of inner doors has been installed in the hallways, fine directory boards of each hall have been mounted on the wall in the hallway of each first floor, and a great deal of other work which will add greatly to the comfort, convenience and appearance of the buildings has been done.

Mr. W. R. Taylor of the Senior class, who is a skilled workman, has superintended the work under the general direction of Mr. E. E. Hopkins, the efficient treasurer and curator of the buildings.

Rev. A. S. Carman, who has been for three weeks attending meetings of the Ohio Baptist Association, preached at the First Baptist church of Columbus last Sunday, and gave the annual address before the Mt. Vernon Association B. Y. P. U. at Fredericktown, on Wednesday evening of this week.

The Columbus Baptist Association meets at Johnstown on Thursday and Friday of this week. Among the speakers are Rev. C. J. Rose, Rev. T. G. Field, Rev. A. S. Carman, Prof. W. A. Chamberlin, and Mr. W. A. Holmes all of Granville.

Dr. E. W. Hunt, president of Denison university, with his wife, sails from England, where he has been preaching at a prominent London church during August, on Saturday, September 5, and will reach Granville about one week later, in time for the rush of the days preceding the opening of college, Thursday, Sept. 17.

Professor C. L. Williams, of Denison, had the honor of having Hon. W. H. Taft as one of his hearers last Sunday at the chapel on Middle Bass Island, where the genial professor has often been asked to preach during the summer months. The distinguished statesman was very appreciative of the sermon and had Prof. Williams dine with him afterward.

Mr. Thomas Harmon returned from Dunkirk, Hardin county, Wednesday evening, and reports that his brother, W. H. Harmon, is lying at the point of death at his home there, with stomach trouble.

Grove B. Jones, son of Mayor B. I. Jones, located at Ft. Wayne, Ind., is spending a few days at his home here.

Miss Frederica Oakley of Monticello, Fla., is visiting Mrs. B. I. Jones for a few days.

DOCTORS

Of Mt. Vernon, Caught by Smooth Talking Insurance Swindler—Newark Physicians May Be Victims.

Several Mt. Vernon physicians have been banded by a mighty slick stranger, and the chances are that some Newark doctors have fallen victims to this same man. In part, the story from Mt. Vernon as printed in the Daily Banner of that city, is that a number of doctors there had been fleeced by a smooth talking insurance agent, who told them if they would take out a policy in the "Toledo Sick and Accident Insurance company" for $100, and pay an initiation fee of $5, thus making him a member, he would be made the company's physician.

The man gave his name as J. Albert Squires, and carried a well filled grip of literature telling of this company, its benefits and payments, and several physicians fell victim to his talk. For each trip to a sick bed or to an accident case, the company's physician was to be paid the regular fees by the company. In Mt. Vernon he showed a clipping supposed to be from the Daily Banner saying that he and Miss Eva Sloan of Newark, were married by a justice of the peace in that city, and as he was going to make his home in Mt. Vernon, he requested that the matter be kept quiet for a few days.

As such an insurance agent is known to have been in Newark, it is possible that several Newark doctors were caught by the same talk as were the physicians of Mt. Vernon. Every possible effort is being made to land the alleged swindler.

AMUSEMENTS

A BEAUTIFUL FIRST PART.

John W. Vogel of the Big City Minstrels, has gone into expenditure regardless in his sumptuous Velour first part settings, with its 1000 incandescent lights, and drapings at $10.50 a yard—the spectacular splurge cost $10,000 completed. Less enterprising rivals carped "reckless," but the liberal output and the gorgeous display has already proved to the proprietor and his patrons that he is quite rational indeed.

John W. Vogel's Big City Minstrels will appear at the Auditorium theater Wednesday, September 9.

AUDITORIUM.

The show at the Auditorium theater last evening was well attended by an appreciative audience. Harry E. Pearce captured the house with his funny monologue and excellent playing. Tonight there will be an entire change of program. Mr. Pearce will make his appearance in an eccentric character sketch, and his act promises to be a side splitting laugh producer. The motion pictures will be all new.
